A good thing to do these hot days is to make a dive for Dick Windsor's barber shop, jump into that new and elegant bath tub he has fitted in his new tansorial palace, and have Dick turn on the water. Our word for it, you will come out cool as a cucumber and clean as a lily.

At the meeting of the State Board of Pharmacy held at Star Island last week, Herb Hennessy and Will Michaels passed successful examinations; the former receiving a fully fledged license as an authorized pharmacist, and the latter the highest authority in the state to act as assistant at any dispensary in the commonwealth. We congratulate these young men on the issue of their trial. After some months of a lay-off to give himself to hard and constant study, Herb is at his post in the Palace Drug Store—and it seems good and like old times to see him there once more.

The Northern Normal is rapidly adding to its fine collection of pictures. The school now possesses seventy-five high grade reproductions of the best things in pictorial art, and has recently secured a collection of portraits of scientists, educators and great writers, including Michael Faraday, Sir Humphry Davy, Alexander von Humboldt, Charles Darwin, Louis Agassiz, Asa Gray, James Dana, John Locke, Comenius, Pestalozzi, Herbert Spencer, David Page, Henry Barnard, Horace Mann, Edmund Spenser, Shakespeare, Tennyson, Goethe, and Dante. The generous friend who gave $1,000 last year for the purchase of pictures and statuary has begun contributions toward the second year's installment of $1,000.

It was our privilege to hear Frank Baxter speak at the Christian church last Sunday morning. Contrary to the usual custom of budding theologians, he made no attempt at eloquent sermonizing; but gave instead a plain talk on Paul's letter to Philimon. It was a simple unfolding of the main and practical points in the epistle, impressing the lessons of christianity, and full of instruction and solid meat for all thoughtful hearers. Frank is home for the summer vacation from the University at Hiram, Ohio, where he is fitting himself for his profession in life. He is a Yale boy with the pluck to strive for an education—and honestly pay for it in rough but solid knocks—and we are proud of him and his manly efforts to succeed.

Gollmar Bros. & Schuman's show arrived here Saturday. There was one thing about the company that was commented upon everywhere, and that was the absence of roughness or profanity on the part of employees. Neither was there the usual misrepresentation. Every one from manager down was gentlemanly and courteous in demeanor. Gollmar Bros. & Schuman have nothing connected with their entertainment or company that the most particular can take offense at.—Fayette County Union, West Union, Ia. This show exhibits in Yale July 2nd.

The Wild West has extended so far West that it has met the East. Buffalo Bill has followed, it has already included Arabs and Cossacks, Filipinos and Hawaiians. Now the Boreas have been taken in, and with other new attractions it has become a Wild East as well as a Wild West. The exhibition has become so broad as to reach nearly around the earth, and perhaps the Wild Circle would be a better name for it. The remaining title, "Congress of Rough Riders of the World," is more appropriate than ever before. Of course it is a well-known fact that the words "Rough Riders" were first used by this organization. This season an extra effort seems to have been made by the management to secure special features, and they disclose one that is admitted to be the greatest spectacular production concerning warfare that has ever before attempted, especially by a tented exhibition. It is termed the Battle of Tien-Tsin, a striking representation of the rescue of the representatives of the different powers, who were held prisoners for some time in Pekin. This affair requires the services of over 600 men, who battle as if in reality, thus giving the spectators a more stirring effect. The scaling of the walls is in itself a most picturesque affair, especially at the finish of the spectacle.

The Smallpox Scare.

For obvious reasons we have hitherto refrained from much comment on the so-called smallpox epidemic in Yale. But all sorts of wild rumors are afloat, and the very air seems charged with stories, falsehoods and vain fabrications, until many timid people are unduly alarmed, and imagine the danger a hundred fold worse than it really is. Perhaps the best way to refute these wild rumors and disprove the falsehoods is to simply and briefly state the facts. In the first place let us state that our health officers are trying to do their duty in strictly enforcing the quarantine laws. They are backed in this by the village officers, and every precaution is taken to reduce the danger of infection to the minimum. At the present writing there is only one case reported in Yale, and that of a very mild form, and the case is closely quarantined. The other case is in quarantine in a tent provided by the village council, which is located almost a mile out of town and in a grove removed from the highway and so isolated that it would be well nigh impossible to spread the disease from it. We have heard of people who have been made so nervous by these wild rumors, that they are afraid to come to town for their mail or necessary shopping. Perhaps these nervous fears cannot be wholly overcome; but there is no more danger in coming to Yale for pleasure or business than at home snugly tucked in your own little bed. This degree of safety and the limited number of cases, are due to the prompt and efficient measures which Dr. Wright, and other health officers are taking, and all can rest assured that there will be no relaxing of vigilance on their part, until every vestige of the disease is fully obliterated from the community. There is one case of smallpox now in Yale, but it is so tightly boxed up, so almost hermetically sealed in quarantine, that you could not catch it if you so desired.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

MRS. ROGER WELCH.
Hattie Brooks was born in Valley Center, Sanilac county, Michigan, July 17, 1871, and died at Yale, June 22, 1901, aged 29 years, 11 months and 26 days. She was married to Roger Welch, Oct. 1, 1890, and to this union were born three children who yet survive: Isla, aged 9; Ida, aged 7, and Basil, aged 2 years. Her parents are both dead. Mrs. Welch has been in poor health for several years; but the immediate cause of her death was some form of acute inflammation. The funeral was held Monday, the 24th, at the M. E. church, Rev. T. Durr officiating, and was attended by a vast concourse of friends, Lady Maccabees, of which order deceased was a member, and Sir Knights. The interment occurred in Elmwood cemetery, where the form of the beloved wife and fond mother was laid to its final rest.

In behalf of Mr. Welch, the bereft husband, we extend thanks to all the friends for the multitude of kindnesses shown in the hour of great sorrow. He is especially grateful to the Lady Maccabees for their attendance and floral tributes, and music furnished at the obsequies.

Hodgins Gets There.

Last spring there were complaints because assessments were being made at a higher value than in former years. Those who criticised did not take into account that an increase in valuation of all property alike does not increase the amount that each taxpayer must pay for local township purposes. But it is an important matter that our township's assessed valuation as fixed by the Board of Supervisors be kept on a fair basis as compared to the other townships to prevent an increase in the amount of our state and county taxes.

Mr. Hodgins was made a member of the Board of Equalization, which is the most important committee, as it fixes the assessed valuation of all townships. Mr. Hodgins was able to show the committee that the assessment as he had made it was at a fair value. As a result his roll stands as assessed by himself. The valuation as fixed by the Board last year was $881,000; this year it is $805,000—a decrease of $76,000 for the township, and a direct gain in state and county taxes for every taxpayer in the township and village.
